To the Reader.

Beholde good Reader, the seconde part of my Librariis : without which this little worke woulde be maimed and misshapen : for since that hath the forme, and this the matter, vntelte shew have that from hence, which the other may set in order, decke, and polishe, I shal seeme but slenderly to haue respectid thy studiis. But least thou stumbe in the verie entrance : Thou must marke these three points. The Accent, certayne maymed and unperfet words; The marshalling of the letters in the Alphabet. Of the Accent know this, that in the first booke where I giue the rule of Euphoniam; bicaus of some uncertaine words which no rule can containe, I referred many things to the Dictionarie. In such Nounes, whose pronuniatio varieith from the rule, I haue heere for the most parte noted the accent, which I would haue thee understand to be alwaies sharpe. In Verbes, although all infinitive moode make the last sharpe; yet thou shalt often find the accent vpon the last sauie one, or the last sauie two: not to the ende thou shouldest imagine that the sillable where the accent standeth, shouldest belong in the infinitive mood; but that shou know it must be so in the first person of the present tense of the indicative. Those in io and uo, commonlie make short the lafft sauie one of the indicative, vntelte the line ouer it saie the contrarie; And all the rest which haue no accent, make it long, though they be derived from such Latin Verbes as are shewe, as you may see in theſe, Imagino. Difſimulo. The words ses by the infinitiu, whether they be perfect or no, shewe thee that those letters make a difference, betweene the infinitive mood and the indicative; by adding or changing some letter: as of Amolar, the first of the indicative, is Amuelor: of Aſſigir, Aſſijo, & ſo of the reſt. The Order of the letters may ſeeme ſomewhat vnorderly. But as it fell ouis it could be no otherwife; bicaus that following Nebrisſenſis and Casas, I traced their ſtep. The Alphabet is thus ſet, A,B,ca,co,cu,ç,a,ee,ci,ç,o,ç,u, ch,D,E,F,G,H,I,Y,j,L,ll,M,N,ñ,O,P,Q,R,S,T,u,V,X,Z. The Spanish words gathered out of Nebrisſenſis, are not al in rfe: for him ſelſe ſaith he framed and coined ſome; yet I haue ſet

En tibi, lector, Bibliothecæ nostra pars Altera: ſine qua opusculū hoc mancum, deformc. Cum enim illius forma, hujus materia propria fit; niſi tibi ex hac, quod illa diſponat, poliat, exornet: ſtudijs tuis male certe conſulm videbitur. Verum ne in ipſo limiae impingas, tria tibi animaduertenda. Accentus, Vocabula quædam mancæ & inarticulæ; Literarum in Alphabete diſpoſitio. De Accentu ſic habeto; Me in priore illa, vbi de Euphoniam præcepta tradiſi, propter incerta quædā quæ nulla capi regula; multa ad Dictionarium rejeciſe. In nominibus quæ à præcepto diuerſam enūciationem fortuntur, accentu hīc pleraq; notauit; quem acutum eſſe ſemper, velim intelligas. In verbis, licet omnia Infiniti modi ultimam acuant; ſæpe tamen inueniēs accentum penultimæ, vel ante penultimæ infidentem: non eo conſilio, vt arbitrere, syllabam illam ab accentu occupatam, in iplo infinito producendam; ſed ut intelligas, eam in prima præsentis indicatiui acuendam. In io & uo pleraque penultimæ indicatiui corripiunt, niſi aliud doceat accentus infidens. Reliqua omnia, quibus nullus apex; eandem producunt; etiā Latinis correptis deriuata; vt in his videre eſt, Imagino, Difſimulo. Vocabula infinitis additæ ſue perfectæ, ſue imperfectæ: illis literis, primam præsentis indicatiui, ab infinitivo diſtingui ſignificant; literam aliquam vel addendo, vel mutando; vt ab Amolar prima indicatiui Amuelo, ab Affigir, Aſſijo, & ſic de ceteris. Literarum ordo paulo videbitur inuerſior: ſed vt res tulit, aliter fieri non potuit. Nebrisſenſis enim & Casas ſequuti, illorum veſtigijs plurimum inſtitimus. Sic igitur Alphabatum tibi diſpositum. A, B, ca, co, cu, ç, a, ee, ci, ç, o, ç, u, ch, D, E, F, G, H, I, vocalis, Y, j, L, ll, M, N, ñ, O, P, Q, R, S, T, u, V, X, Z. Verba etiam Hispanica, quæ ē Nebrisſenſis, ſcito non vſquequaque omnia in vſu: cum & ipſe aperte loquatur, à ſe non nulla ſicta & exculta. Apposui tamen omnia, ne me parum sanafide in illo versarium existimares. Crebras illas ejusdem verbi repetitiones, quæ illi frequentes, ad Latinæ dictionis sensum exprimendum; prudens vitavi. Hispanica enim lingua mihi explicanda, non Latina. Hoc amite lector præmonuisse sufficiat: & si quid pectatum in prima hac editione imprudentia fuerit; modò his per te expeditum iter, postea corrigeatur. Cognolce mecum & agnosce; homines nos, & humanum, labi falli: quod si nulli hic navi essent, nullæ maculæ, extra Britanniae fines deportandam prolem hanc nostram, & (quod prodigiolis partibus facilitatum à Romanis, historie testes) igne cremandam, ipse ego autor & suasor esse. Valt, & nos. is faue, vtere.

set downe all, least than shouldest thinke I dealt scarse faithfully with him: I haue purposly passed over his repetitions of the selfe same word, which he often useth to express the sense of the Latin words; for I go about to explain the Spanish, not to teach the Latine. Let it suffice good Reader to admonish thee thus much; and if by oversight, any thing haue escaped in this first impression; so this with thy good fauor, may haue speedy passage; it shall be amended hereafter. Know with me, and acknowlede, that we are men, and as men we may slip, and be deceived; for if there were in this, no spott nor freckles, I my selfe would wish and persuade it, to be carried out of the boundes of this Realme, and there burned: as the histories wit-nesse, the Romanes were woont to do with monstrous births. Farewell good Reader, fauour and use vs.
